Old and new. Rich and poor. Classical and modern. The fourth largest city in the world by population and a destination for remarkably heavy urban migration, Mumbai is the commercial capital of one of the world's fastest growing economies.

The city formerly known as Bombay houses Asia's oldest stock exchange, fosters the arts, and hosts India's Fashion Weeks. Home to Bollywood, the glitz and glamour of Mumbai's global film industry is reflected in gleaming skyscrapers and revered in teeming slums.

Throughout their program, interns will have an experience like no other as they encounter the industry and energy as well as the diversity and disparity of one of the most fascinating cities in the world.
