Campus	Campus Cluster Paris Innovation
Timetable & Room	Timetable & Room will be available on your extranet a week prior to the start of your class.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course will study the main segments of the luxury market from the perspective of their key issues and the challenge of their economic development. A focus on social trends, with the emergence of the Z generation, will lay the foundation for an understanding of the business of the luxury industry. In fact, managing a luxury brand is a challenging task, which requires a careful balance between creativity and design as well as brand image and corporate objectives. For hundreds of years, it is recognized that luxury goods should be timeless, finely crafted to express rarity and exclusivity. But, nowadays, facing a massive digital shift, with the explosion of social and digital media platforms, the marketing communications of the luxury goods brands has become as far more multi-faced with new objectives of democratisation. Not so long ago, it was said that to achieve success in the field of luxury, it was necessary to do exactly the opposite of what was taught in traditional marketing lessons. It is still the case? That is the question. This course will provide an update on major topics

COURSE OBJECTIVES & EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES:

On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

- Fully understand the main aspects of the luxury industry today (markets, players) with its current challenges and issues;
- Allow students to have a comprehensive overview of the management of luxury brands in different categories of products and /or services;
- Understand the dynamics of new luxury in opposition with the old one; -Investigate on the luxury products and/or services, price, distribution and communication;
- Demonstrate their specific skills in Luxury Brand Management along with problem solving

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

In an era of digital transformation, big data and rapid technological developments, marketers are motivated to exploit external opportunities, expand their businesses, and maintain growth. This course prepares students to examine the theories and practices of international marketing critically. Critical areas of culture, economic forces, political and legal issues, and language will be the focus of the course. Inclass discussions examine motivational factors and driving forces of international marketing, and a group assignment will allow students to critically reflect upon the course content. In addition, students will apply the acquired knowledge during a marketing simulation game. Finally, the students will solidify their understanding of marketing mix, the basics of international marketing strategy, and global market theories through experiential learning, using case studies and incidents. Shortly after the commencement of the course, the professor will regularly share various aspects of social marketing with the students. Social Responsibility in marketing involves attracting customers who want to impact their buying decisions positively. Companies in today's business world have adopted socially responsible marketing strategies to increase customer awareness and help the community via beneficial services. It is important to evaluate the ways in which marketing managers can apply CSR-related activities to generate value for their various stakeholders. It is just as important to advance knowledge on CSR implementation in the field of marketing through this literature review and corresponding empirical evidence. Holding a Ph.D. in International Business specializing in responsibility management, students will leverage the professor's academic knowledge in CSR and exploit the chance to share modernized case studies and relevant reference

COURSE OBJECTIVES & EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES:

On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

- Describe different national cultures and analyze the interaction between the organization's aims and the external environment to formulate the right marketing strategies
- Identify the key characteristics of international marketing I teams
- Apply power and influence tactics in international marketing teams to take advantage of diversity
- Learn the essentials of international marketing strategy
- Understand the segmentation, targeting, and positioning process in international markets
- Be able to apply international marketing concepts to marketing mix activities
- Evaluate theories and techniques for formulating international marketing strategies and critically assess organizational changes

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

As the environment and companies become more dynamic and complex, managers are required to formulate and implement strategies that take into account both the internal and external dimensions of the company. The course first focuses on systematic external and internal analysis, and introduces a generic range of strategic alternatives before covering strategies at the corporate and business level. The course then analyzes the evolution and challenges of strategic issues related to the national and international development of companies.

COURSE OBJECTIVES & EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES:

On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

- Compare and evaluate strategic frameworks and models to analyze competitive and organizational contexts
- Compare, select and debate decisions to be made as future managers
- Evaluate strategic business issues

LEARNING RESOURCES:

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Against a backdrop of profound corporate transformation (telework, hybrid organizations, etc.) and its attendant questioning (ethical and sustainable development issues, etc.), this course aims to provide all Master 1 students with the fundamentals of management, through a reflexive and critical approach to corporate operations and management. The aim is to deepen our understanding of individuals and groups behaviors within organizations, as well as the challenges met by companies in their economic and social environment, to ultimately draw lessons for managerial action. For students with other educational backgrounds, the main goal is to acquire and master analytical frameworks to understand the dynamics of organizations and their environment.

COURSE OBJECTIVES & EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES:

On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

- Conduct the organizational diagnosis of a company
- Manage contemporary transformations within a company or organization
- Unite and lead internal and external actors in terms of governance, with a concern for ethics and social responsibility
- Conduct a reflexive analysis of their professional practice by analyzing complex situations while respecting the principles of ethics, deontology and environmental responsibility

Semester	Fall Semester
Number of ECTS	6
Schedule	Total of contact hours: TBC
Campus	Campus Cluster Paris Innovation
Timetable & Room	Timetable & Room will be available on your extranet a week prior to the start of your class.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The course addresses the criteria used by the company to define its investment and financing policy. In addition, this course addresses the question of cash management forecasts through the study of the financing plan. The financial diagnosis of the company is also studied through the construction of the functional balance sheet and the study of the major balances but also through the Bloomberg financial Analysis Report, group work in Finance Lab, whose objective is to allow students to understand the company's financial fundamentals while using the Bloomberg terminal, widely used by finance professionals, as the main source of information.

COURSE OBJECTIVES & EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES:

On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

- Determine the most relevant financing policy for the company
- Analyze the financial structure of the company through the study of the balance of its balance sheet
- Formulate the corrective elements to be made in order to improve the financial structure of the company
- Collect and analyze financial analysis data through the use of a professional tool: the Bloomberg terminal
