MASTER OF SCIENCE IN

Finance

Advance your understanding of the financial industry with a master's degree in Finance from SNHU. Expand your knowledge base and use your expertise to advance your career.

Position yourself for greater success by earning a master's in Finance from Southern New Hampshire University. At SNHU, you'll gain the financial analysis and quantitative skills you need to become a leader in the field. Coursework in investments, corporate finance, advanced economic theory, and financial markets will help you secure professional and management positions.

The M.S. in Finance program is taught during the day on our campus in Manchester, N.H. Coupled with a test-prep course, this unique program prepares you to take the Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) Level 1 exam. The program has three terms per year—September, January and May—which allows you to complete the program in 12–18 months. You can start your program during any one of these three terms.

Southern New Hampshire University has a long history of providing highly respected finance-related undergraduate and graduate degrees—in fact, SNHU was founded as an accounting school in 1932. Our M.S. in Finance degree program continues this fine tradition. As an SNHU student, you'll have access to internship and networking opportunities through well-connected alumni who have earned their graduate finance degrees.
